This may be merely a personal prejudice, or, on the other hand, it may represent the majority opinion of the American people — but it seems to me that the issue raised in the Vultee airplane plant strike in California, now happily settled, represents a warning to our nation not to let World War No. 2 repeat the same mistakes that were made in our national economy during the World War No. 1.

Ten Carpenters Are Injured When Temporary Roof Falls

LITTLE ROCK —(P)— Temporary roof supports weekend by recent heavy rains gave way on a big army messhall under construction at Camp Robinson near here Wednesday, plunging six roofers and splinters of broken boards on a dozen carpenters engaged in laying the flooring inside the building.

Ten men were brought to a Little Rock hospital for treatment of injuries, none of which appeared critical. Captain Frank Reed, constructing quartermaster, said the messhall will have to be built from the floor up.

Submits Change in Road Plans

Would Give Farm-Road Funds to State Commission

LITTLE ROCK —(P)— The transfer of the state highway commission was recommended Wednesday by the farm-to-market roads subcommittee of state land-use planning commission.
Either a constitutional amendment or act of legislature to be necessary for such transfer, the committee said.
The committee said the approach to such an aim, described as an "ultimate goal," was to be the cooperation between individual counties and the state highway commission.

A Thought

Take heed to yourselves: If thy brother trespass against thee, rebuke him; and if he repent, forgive him.—Luke 17:3.

Pine Bluff and Hope to Close Season Here

Zebras Are Favored in Final Game Thanksgiving Day

The hapless Hope Bobcats will close their worst season here Thanksgiving day against the Pine Bluff Zebras, who have also had a bad year.

The Bobcats will rely mostly on trick plays and passing, which has been their main offense all season. However, the ground game is expected to be strengthened considerably with the return of Jimmy Simms. The starting lineup puts three dandy pass-receivers in the backfield in Simms, Martindale and Oliver, and with Hammons doing the passing the Hope boys should gain plenty of ground through the air.

Zebras Strong

Although not as strong as in other years the Zebras still have a much better record than Hope. The Pine Bluff boys consider a win over Little Rock the key to a good season and in that game the Zebras were in front 12-0 at the midway period. The Tigers proved themselves one of the state's best teams by coming back in the last half and winning 14-12. Last week Pine Bluff lost 7-0 in an inter-sectional game but outgained their opponent.

Hope Loses 9

Thursday's game will probably end the career of nine seniors on the Bobcat squad. They are Breeding, May, Bradshaw, guards, Locom, Clark, ends; Jewell, Martindale, backs; Snyder, tackle and Bundy, center.
Admission to the game will be 75c to adults and 25 c to students, (conference ruling.) The game will start promptly at 2:30 p. m.

Probably lineups:
HOPE	PINE BLUFF
Clark	Smith
Breeding	Center
Snyder	Right Guard
Thompson	Right Tackle
Simms	Right End
Oliver	Quarterback
Hammons	Right Half
	Fullback

Trees, which in summer provided a green setting for this Amarillo home, are nothing but a mass of tangled, broken limbs after they collapsed under the weight of many tons of ice in the Panhandle City's disastrous storm.

Bloody Revenge Taken on King Carol Aides

Battle Reported in Mediterranean; Italians Fall Back

BUDAPEST —(P)— The Rumanian Iron Guard was reported Wednesday to have taken a bloody revenge on the regime of former King Carol early Wednesday by executing 64 political prisoners near the grave of Corneliu Zelea Codreanu, founder of the guard.

They fell under the rifle fire of a troop of Iron Guardists at Bucharest's grim prison, according to the Hungarian news agency and other corroborative sources which penetrated the censorship imposed in Rumania by the Iron Guard Government of Premier Ion Antonescu.

All the judges and gendarmes alleged to have had a part in the mass killing of Iron Guardists when Carol was on the throne were reported shot.

A sea battle in the Mediterranean at an "extreme range" was reported by London admiralty Wednesday, with the British fleet clashing with a sizable Fascist force.

The admiralty communique gave no details regarding the outcome of the fight. It was said the Italian craft included two battleships, and a large force of cruisers and destroyers.

Earlier the London air ministry reported that far-reaching British heavy bombers had set fires at the Italian royal arsenal at Turin, and raided Berlin, while Britain's little ally, Greece, declared that Italy's invasion armies were falling back in disorder with "broken morale."

The attack on Turin, it was said, greatly increased the destruction inflicted in a raid Saturday night and started a "number of fires and set the city shaking with bursts of its own explosives."

Members of the British Parliament heard Minister, without portfolio Arthur Greenwood say that Britain made a "clean breast" of her deficiencies to the United States and expects North American soon to become "a second arsenal" sufficient to insure a British victory.

U. S.-Russia Talks Resumed

Whisky Still Is Captured

Bob Palmore, Negro, Held in Jail Here

Raiding of a whisky still about 6 miles south of Hope near the Altou CCC Camp Tuesday by officers resulted in the capture of Bob Palmore, negro, who is lodged in jail here pending a hearing. Another negro escaped.

Policemen seized four barrels of mash and five gallons of whisky. The still, 60 gallon capacity, was according to Deputy Sheriff Tom Middlebrooks, one of the best found in this area in several years. It was very complete and made of copper.

Assisting Deputy Middlebrooks in making the raid were State Policemen Charlie Boyd and Joe Morton, of the local force.

Fight Started Murray off

CIO Leader Began Career Back in 1904

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE
WASHINGTON — Childhood tutelage in trade unionism combined with a fist fight at the age of 18 launched the C. I. O.'s Philip Murray on his career as a labor leader.

Back in 1904 Murray was a brawny young Pennsylvania miner just two years out of his native Scotland. One day he came out of the pit after 12 hours of work and complained to the company weighmaster that he was not being credited with all the coal he was sending to the shaft.

Words led to a fight. Murray "licked" the weighmaster and was fired for brawling on company property. The miners next morning went out on strike in sympathy.

In Mine at 10
A mass meeting was called, a local of the United Mine Workers was organized, and the youthful Murray was elected president by acclamation. His father voted for him along with the other miners.

Murray had grown up in an atmosphere of British labor struggle. When he was 6 years old his father took him to a union meeting at which settlement of a long strike was announced giving the Scotch miners a substantial daily wage increase.

At 10 he went to work in the mine with his father. He studied evenings, heard his father talk enthusiastically of union gains and of the liberalism of British Statesmen William E. Gladstone and Robert Peel.

Also Diplomat
Advancing from local to district union leader in western Pennsylvania, Murray continued intensive study of the relationship between labor and industry. He became international vice president of the United Mine Workers in 1920 and has been the right hand man of John L. Lewis in that organization for the last 20 years.

The granite-jawed, shaggy-faced Lewis has overshadowed his less spectacular first lieutenant although Murray has been the big union's main negotiator with coal operators. He long has been rated a diplomatic but persistent bargainer, well posted on the economics of coal and steel.

Murray led Lewis campaign to organize the steel workers, helped formulate the agreement with United States Steel and directed C. I. O.'s three battle with "little steel" in 1937.

Was Athlete
An ardent protagonist of industrial unionism, he followed Lewis in insisting out at "reactionary craft union leaders" in the American Federation of Labor. Nevertheless, he is considered a deft conciliator.

Many years a Republican, he supported Roosevelt in 1936 and plugged for his re-election this year although Lewis had endorsed Wendell Willkie's candidacy.

Tall, gray-haired and compactly built, Murray, at 54, gives the impression of elastic vigor. In his youth he was a star soccer player.

School Board Member
He speaks with a distinct Scottish burr and is a good phrase-maker but does not attempt oratorical flights in the Lewis manner. He is a Catholic and has been a member of the Pittsburgh board of education for many years.

Murray was a member of the national coal production commission during the World War. He is affiliated with the "highbrow" American Academy of Political and Social Science and has testified frequently before Congressional committees on labor questions.

His Bare Skin Needs Some Help in Winter

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. —(P)—The polar bear does not like cold weather. Edward W. Clark, Jr., superintendent of Cheyenne Mountain zoo, reports. He has found that the warmer it is the better the polar bears like it providing they have plenty of water.

"In their wild state the female hibernates all winter in a snow cave. The male ranges for food. They can take it good and cold but they like warmth," he says.

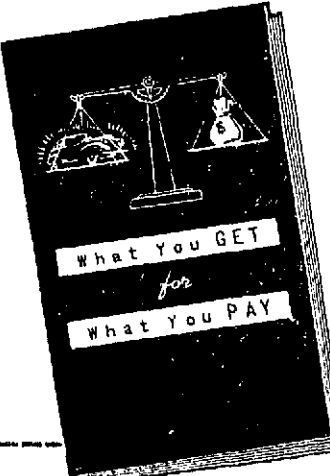

Clark reported that during a recent cold wave Cheyenne Mountain chimpanzees from Equatorial Africa threw snowballs at each other while the polar bears sat in a corner and shiver-r-r-ed.

We Just Don't Like the Idea of "PACKED" NEW-CAR PRICES

Get Your FREE Copy of This Valuable Booklet—and See Why We GUARANTEE Our Prices to be Free of "Packs" and Hidden Charges.

THE "pack" is another one of those dangerously clever and "slick" ideas.

People like to get big trade-in allowances for their old cars.

But they have to accept the price the dealer put on the new cars they buy.

So, slick dealers figure, why not add something extra to the new-car price, and have that much more to "pad" the trade-in allowance if it's necessary to make the sale?

Now, we just can't stomach that way of doing business.

Even if you get the full amount of the "pack" back in an increased allowance, you've been deliberately fooled into thinking you're getting a better deal than you are.

Besides—how can you tell whether you're getting all of the "pack" back?

The only way we know to insist on seeing fully itemized prices before you buy. We not only quote such itemized prices, but we give every buyer a positive guarantee that the price he pays has no "pack" or other hidden charge in it.

That's just another reason for making your next car a 1941 Fireball-powered Buick.

It's not only a high, wide and handsome stepper and a big, roomy, oversize beauty, but it's the year's big value sold on an honest and aboveboard basis.

We give every purchaser this ironclad guarantee that the price he pays contains no "pack" or hidden charge of any kind.

Lessons the American Way

New Phase Helps 'Good Neighbor' Policy

AP Feature Service
AUNCIÓN, Paraguay—Five thousand miles from home as the crow flies and twice as far by normal routes is a bustling of North Americans are pushing a "good neighbor" program conceived a generation before President Roosevelt made the phrase popular.

They are representatives of the United Christian Missionary Society who came here from Indianapolis, Ind., 20 years ago to found a small school. Today their international college is teaching the American way of life to 350 boys and girls of many nationalities.

Something New
Its pupils, boys and girls from kindergarten to college age, follow training courses prescribed by Paraguayan law but in addition are taught English and many facts about their "big sister" republic to the north.

The missionaries and teachers also brought Paraguay another innovation—the nation's first and only modern scholastic sports field. American baseball flourishes under the hot Paraguayan sun.

23 Nationalities
Within the American type classrooms, now models for Paraguay, tiny Indian children only a few months removed from the Chaco are pupils, alongside the sons and daughters of cabinet ministers and foreign diplomats. The latter have contributed heavily to the 23 nationalities making up International College's present enrollment.

David Harums on the Spot

SAIGNELEGER, Switzerland (AP)—Swapping horses, once a favorite sport of Swiss peasants, is virtually a thing of the past in Switzerland because of new army regulation forbidding such transfers without special permission.

The army considers every Swiss horse subject to call for service at any moment. Authorities want to know where the horses are and to make sure the number in each district remains constant.

Housewife Gives Tips to Army

LONDON (AP)—Every night at 7 o'clock 12 soldiers crowd around the table in a northeast town and get cooking hints from a grey-haired Scottish woman, Mrs. Oliver Gathercole.

An expert on Yorkshire pudding and cookies, Mrs. Gathercole helps the men plan meals to be given the following day to troops billeted in the town. Every morning she rises before 6 o'clock to deliver papers, comes home to get the family breakfast, does the housework and makes a paper round in the evening.

Soybeans now are used in the manufacture of candy, cosmetic creams, hair tonic and leather dressing.

Beware Coughs That Hang On

Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. Tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

76th Congress Will Pass Bills

Its Buck-Passing Time On the Capital Hill

By JACK STINNETT
WASHINGTON — It's about time for the great biennial passing of the buck from one congress to another.

With ending of the 76th congress, five highly controversial measures (four of them already passed by the house of representatives) go down to what may be dusty death on the tables of senate committees or on the calendar.

As this is being written, the exact date of the demise of congress is not definite and it is barely possible that the Republican contingent, headed by Senator Vandenberg, (Mich.) in the upper house and Minority Leader Joe Martin, in the lower, will have its way and keep congress on until the legislative year ends January 3. In that event, one or two of the measures which have been stamped by the house as a good thing for the nation might get to the floor of the senate, but the best guessers don't guess so.

Slated for Ash-Can
Here are the bills which it seems are slated for the 76th congress ash-can:

(1) The Logan-Walter bill, a complicated measure which would put a check rein on government administrative agencies and make it possible for persons and companies to appeal to the courts when they feel the agencies have issued orders violating their individual rights. The house passed it by a big majority, but the Senate has kept it muffled in committee swaddling clothes.

(2) The anti-lynching bill. Passed by the house by an almost 2-to-1 vote last January, this one went to the senate amid dark hints of a filibuster from southern senate leadership. Any effort should be made to bring it to the floor. The bill was approved by the senate judiciary in April (10-to-3) and until about June it seemed it might some day come to a vote. Then came national defense and the anti-lynching bill has been hanging on the calendar ever since, with some senator only now and then giving it as much as a sidelong glance.

(3) The Wagner act amendments, which would provide a new three-man national labor relations board and heavy over-hauling of the original Wagner labor act. This passed the house in June by exactly 2-to-1 but the senate hasn't given it a decent nod.

(4) The Ranspock bill which would bring about 200,000 more government employees under civil service. The senate did act on this one, but it killed one important house provision and added one of its own and a stormy conference not to send the bill back to the house with those changes. Rep. Robert Ranspock (D-Ga.) has hopes of salvaging his bill this session, but many observers think it also will go by the board.

(5) Also pending in the Senate is the important King resolution which would relax our neutrality laws and make some changes in the obnoxious act, which forbids loans to countries which haven't paid their World War debts. This is the measure which would open the door to greater material aid to Britain.

These Aren't All
These aren't all the pending measures which are likely to be passed on to the 77th congress, but they are the important ones.

If they die on the senate calendar or in committee, they will have to be re-introduced at the next session and acted on again by BOTH houses before they can become laws. With the gains of the majority party in

DUDE COLLEGE

COPYRIGHT, 1940, NEA SERVICE, INC.

YESTERDAY, Dr. Wesley York takes up slugging, while Andre Girardeau, the girl with the crutch, Girardeau makes arrangements with Ronica's father to take her to the Saturday dance. Drifting out to the ranch, she announces to the rest of York's disappointed sedan, hurries on in to greet Ronica.

DR. YORK GOES TO A PARTY

CHAPTER IX

DR. WOODROW WESLEY YORK, of Pueblo University, had a perfectly genuine Ph. D. degree and a reasonably good salary for a junior faculty member. But no instructor is ever paid very much, and so the rattle-bang type sedan which Wesley owned was, in a measure, symbolic. It suggested thrift, but it also suggested need. Right now, beside Andre Girardeau's sleek, new coupe, in front of the elaborate Rocking R Ranch home, it looked like a fugitive from a junk yard.

Moreover, Andre himself had personified haughty aristocracy when he ordered Wesley off the premises and stepped into Ronica's home. Andre was meticulously dressed, Manhattan fashion. Wesley, on the other hand, wore simply his best suit; the same one he wore on Sundays to church with his mother, and to church when his second best was being cleaned. He even had on his heavy black-rimmed spectacles.

Suddenly he remembered something, and took the glasses off. He didn't actually need them except for reading, but habit is strong. He stood there in the darkness a moment, then moved hesitantly to the porch. He heard the obvious pleasure of Ronica in greeting Andre Girardeau and in sudden panic—was about to flee, but a portly gentleman came out the door and saw him.

"Hey there, how do you do, young man?" The portly one was cordial. "Come in, come right in. My name's Bailey — Ronica's father."

"Uh, York. I am Wesley York." "Fine, fine, Wesley! Go right in with the other young people. Ronica always has a crowd around. Dance tonight, isn't there? Yes, that's right, this New York fellow, Andre Girardeau, is escorting Ronica, I believe. You riding in with them, no doubt? Fine night to—"

"Why, ah—" Wesley couldn't speak coherently, partly because Bailey had him by the arm and was gently leading him to the living room door. But, before Ronica saw him, Wesley stopped.

"N-No! Mr. Bailey, I—the fact is, I was just leaving, thanks just the same. I, uh, did come—but I must make another call immediately. Many thanks, sir."

"Oh, all right, son. Always feel at home here. Everybody else does."

WESLEY almost ran to his old car. He felt surely Ronica must have heard him, but apparently not. Lest he be caught yet, however, and so subjected to more acute embarrassment, he jabbed at his starter and roared off down the narrow trail again.

Not until he was out of sight of the Rocking R house did he regain composure and realize his plight. He had thought his date with Ronica a genuine one! She herself had suggested it, but—plainly now, she had just been ridiculing him.

The thought hurt deeply. He had felt that Miss Bailey was a sincere, kindly girl although a famous and most vivacious one. But, Wesley told himself dejectedly, he might have known better. Who was he to expect such bounty from—what was it that radio columnist called her?—America's most complacent somebody? Still, the other wealthy, lovely girls at Pueblo U. were seldom cruel; usually they were as democratic as the average American.

His thoughts grew blacker and blacker as he left the moon-bathed countryside and came within the village lights of Pueblo again, and so without realizing it he pulled up at his home. His mother was on the porch, rocking.

"Why, son, didn't you go to the dance?" Mrs. York sensed something. She stopped her chair.

"Uh, not yet, mother. I—I had to come back for something, that's all."

A fellow has to bluff. To keep face. He forced a casual manner, went to his room, then out again and drove off in his old car. And by this time he was definitely angry, hence more reasonable.

"I've got to go to that dance anyway," he reminded himself. "Faculty members are expected to, and I am chief student contact. They look to me. Besides—she—"

HE glanced hastily around. No, she wasn't here yet. But across the room he did discover that exquisite, dark-eyed girl, Lona Montoya, the one who had just registered this year from away down in Vera Cruz, and who had suffered an unfortunate accident. Even now she sat holding her crutch. He crossed to her.

"Dr. Wesley York!" Lona beamed sweetly at him. "Isn't everything so loveable tonight?"

"Including you, Miss Montoya," said Wesley, which was a daring thing for him to say. "I am so sorry you cannot dance with the others. May I, uh, may I request at least one interval here with you, just conversing?"

"Oh Wesley!" Lona dropped the title. "You are too kind!"

"Not at all! It is a pleasure for me. I, uh, came along, and—"

"So did I. I wanted so to be here, but I would not burden any man who might ask me for a date, because I can't dance tonight. But these music — o-o-o-oh! Is loveable!"

"To tell you the truth, Lona," Wesley dropped a title too, and was plunging on courageously, "I came alone in the hopes that I might, uh, find just this opportunity—to be with you!"

He swallowed, hard; but nothing came of his timidity. Lona merely smiled and said more at ease. He rather lied to Lona in relief for it was a dignified, logical way of escape from his predicament.

It occurred to him that, if Ronica Bailey did come in, she would see him here and so think he had brought Lona. If so, well and good! Then he could hold up his head in truth. It would, in effect, proclaim to Ronica that he, too, knew Ronica had been just baiting him that afternoon in the airplane; that their "date" hadn't been taken seriously by either one.

THE relief was almost physical to Wesley. He suddenly relaxed. After all, Lona Montoya was nobody for any escort to be ashamed of; she was beautiful, even if she was from a foreign land.

He turned to her with sudden enthusiasm and was being as cordial and as attentive as he knew how, ignoring the fact that music had ceased behind him and that young colleagues were milling around in gay greetings to every one. He felt that he might actually enjoy this evening a bit. Then, suddenly, his conversation and reveries were interrupted.

"Hey, for Pete Q. sake, Wesley York!" somebody was saying. "I thought you had a date this evening with me? Can you please tell me what the score is?"

He turned in consternation to face Ronica Bailey and the man Girardeau he had left at her home.

Prefabrication Might Break Defense Housing Jam, Cut Prices

WASHINGTON — Prefabricated housing might—just possibly—break the log jam in defense housing and help knock down small home prices all along the line.

Experts see in pre-fabricated housing an ideal answer to the need for vastly increased, but largely temporary, housing accommodations in certain defense production areas.

They recall the famous Fort Wayne experiment of a few years ago, in which serviceable five-room houses were put up for around $800. Since WPA labor was used, this doubtless was under any price private industry could be expected to meet; nevertheless, the houses came in pre-fabricated panels which could be erected in one day—and which, after the need was gone, could be knocked down in another day and moved to any spot. Files of the anti-trust division of the Department of Justice are eloquent about some of the things that have stymied pre-fabricated housing. Take the experience of the Gunnison Manufacturing Corp. at Belleville, Ill. Gunnison builds pre-fabricated houses. Its plant in New Albany, Ind., is a C. I. O. shop. Recently it got a contract to put up one of its houses in Belleville.

At Belleville it couldn't get a contractor to handle the job, nor could it hire any A. F. of L. union workers. Hence it brought in its own crew of C. I. O. men to do the job. When the materials were shipped in, local workers wouldn't unload them at the freight station, and local haulers would not handle them. When, finally, the materials were got to the lot, pickets swarmed around and there were daily fights and near-riots. Efforts to get police protection failed.

Justice Department finally moved in and indicted a lot of people—local building materials dealers, local unions, and the chief of police. Gunnison was then able to go ahead and build the house. But the case

WE, THE WOMEN

Mrs. What-Will-They-Think? Does Not Get Much Fun in Life

By RUTH MILLETT

Small towns and cities both are full of women like Mrs. What-will-they-think?

She doesn't really enjoy life herself and she usually keeps the family from having much fun.

The whole trouble is that women like this don't choose anything—rather they let their friends—in answer to the practical question, "What do I and my family really want?" Instead they always wonder, "What will-they-think?" and choose accordingly. "They" are the neighbors, or "right people" or "the crowd."

Mrs. What-will-they-think? doesn't pick out a house or a neighborhood according to what comforts and conveniences and luxuries will add the most to her family's happiness. She picks the neighborhood and the house to impress her friends.

She furnishes her house with what "THEY" are using in "THEIR" homes—scared to death to make it a place that without regard to what "THEY" are doing" caters to her family's comfort on a dubious and expresses the family's individuality.

School, Friends, Dancing Lessons

She chooses the schools her children go to not for some reason like, "Where will Jimmy get the best foundation for college?" or "Where will Susie's talent for art be encouraged?" but "Where are THEY sending THEIR children?"

She chooses her friends for the social standing they have rather than for any joy she may get out of their company.

She makes her children take dancing lessons, not because she thinks they should, but because "some other woman's" children are taking dancing lessons.

She is so consistent in her What-

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 16 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or restless passages with aching and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 16 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

FSA Families Also Thankful
19,045 Families Produced Own Food and Meat

LITTLE ROCK—Like their pioneer ancestors, who served full meals because they lived-at-home, some 19,045 farm families working with the Farm Security Administration in Arkansas will sit down to tables heaped high with food fit for a king and give thanks Thursday, just as the Pilgrims fathers did more than 300 years ago.

For many of these families Thanksgiving dinner this year will be something to write home about—because hundreds of these families have produced their own food and meat this year for the first time. It will mark the first time, in many years, that they have not prepared a Turkey Day dinner from paper sacks and tin cans.

"These families will be able to have that traditional Turkey Day dinner with all the trimmings, because they have abandoned the one-crop system of farming that prevented them from growing their own fruits, vegetables, and meat," said Miss Gladys L. Waters, Associate Director for the Farm Security Administration, who has charge of the food preservation program in the state.

And what a dinner they could have. The amount of food stored by these families would make the harvest of the Pilgrims look like a mole-hill.

"Practically every family could have baked chicken, and roast beef and pork will be served by hundreds, while many will kill their own turkeys for the festive occasion. All of the families will have fresh milk and butter. Corn muffins will be made from corn they have grown," said Miss Waters.

Regardless of the number of Turkey Days they celebrate this year, most of the farm families working with the Farm Security Administration have sufficient food stored to take them through the winter and spring. Take a look in the pantries and smoke houses—here's what you would find.

Choice vegetables 4,800,977 quarts; vegetable juices 163,956 1/2 quarts; fruits 2,229,695 quarts; fruit juices 117,607 quarts; canned meats and fish 128,304 quarts; 1,985,631 pounds of onions; 716,398 pounds of dried vegetables; 59,672 pounds of dried fruits; and 1,042,410 pounds of cured meats; 188,387 pounds of lard; 465,073 bushels of potatoes; 31,311 bushels of other vegetables; 125,443 gallons of syrup; 333,581 pints of jellies and preserves and 800,626 quarts of pickles and relishes.

Hudson Wren, state director, pointed out that the families will give thanks for better crops, better tenure, better housing and improved health.

12,097 Bales Ginned; Total 21,814 in '39

A total of 12,097 bales of cotton was ginned in Hempstead county prior to November 14, as compared with 21,814 for the crop of 1939, according to W. H. Etter, federal crop reporter.

On the previous report from Nevada county, that section had ginnings of 6,888 bales prior to November 1, as compared to 10,173 for the 1939 crop, according to Carl Munn of Rossini, federal reporter for Nevada county.

Will Willkie Try Again?
If So He Will Break Party Precedent of 86 Years

By JACK STINNETT
WASHINGTON — Already Washington is talking about 1944 as if it were just around the corner. The political prognosticators are burning midnight oil and slinging ink from Page 1 to Classified trying to guess the future of Wendell L. Willkie and the part he will play in the Republican party in the coming years.

Let's leave that to the Pol. Progs. Really, they don't know much more about it than we do, as most of them will admit. The shape of things to come will mold the future of the Republican party (and the Democratic party, too) and of Wendell L. Willkie, but—

If Mr. Willkie is nominated for the presidency again in 1944, he will be upsetting another Republican applecart (and one that has been running smoothly for 86 years) because he will be the first defeated candidate in the history of the party ever to have been nominated for a second try.

Not only that, but if Mr. Willkie should even be considered as a serious contender for the nomination by next convention time, he will be kicking over a precedent that has been broken by only two men in either of the major parties since pre-Civil war days.

Democratic Exceptions
Grover Cleveland and William Jennings Bryan both were nominated on the Democratic ticket three times. Bryan, of course, never won the election. Cleveland did twice and although he was a defeated candidate when he was nominated in 1892, this was somewhat offset by the fact that he had been President for four years BEFORE his defeat. These are the two exceptions and both were Democrats. Let's look to the roster of defeated Republican candidates.

The first candidate of the Republican party as we know it today was Gen. John Charles Fremont, Indian fighter, California hero, and veteran of a dozen western ventures that had made him a national figure. James Buchanan beat him in 1856 and although Fremont remained in the limelight a good many years the was territorial governor of Arizona and he was nominated by a rump convention of Republican radicals at Cleveland in 1864 but withdrew in favor of Lincoln when he was convinced his candidacy might split the party vote, he never really counted as a political force after his defeat.

James G. Blaine, defeated by Cleveland in 1884, stayed in the picture long enough to become Benjamin Harrison's Secretary of State, 1889-'92, but when Harrison was defeated he turned to international law.

William Howard Taft and Charles Evans Hughes went on from defeated candidates to become chief justices of the Supreme Court a position which precludes political activity. Former President Hoover and Alf M. Landon are, of course, still on the political scene, but conventions since their defeats have passed them by with little more than a nod of courtesy.

On the Democratic side, since 1860, there have been Stephen A. Douglas, who died shortly after Lincoln's first inaugural; Gen. George B. McClellan; Horatio Seymour and Horace Greeley, who were beaten by Grant; Samuel J. Tilden, defeated by Rutherford B. Hayes in the famous contest election; Gen. Winfield Scott Hancock, the brilliant Union general, who was defeated by Garfield; and Alton B. Parker, who lost to Theodore Roosevelt in 1904. In nearly every instance, these men "retired to private life" after their political Waterloo, as did James M. Cox, the Dayton, O., publisher, and John W. Davis, the New York attorney. Al Smith's defeat in 1928 has brought in its wake only his well-known "walks" of succeeding years and a split with the party to which he had given life-long allegiance.

This is the record that Mr. Willkie has to look back upon. He may, of course, become the Republican Bryan or Cleveland, but if he does he'll have to smash another Republican precedent—one that is probably even more firmly established than those he broke when he ran away with the party nomination in Philadelphia.

Employees began returning to work at 7 a. m. Wednesday—under the watchful eyes of Federal Bureau of Investigation agents determined to see that no spies obtain entrance in the guise of workers. Company officials said there could be no "mass re-employment." One commented:

"It will be a slow process. The men will be subjected to almost as close scrutiny as when they were originally employed."

The new contract provides a minimum wage of 62 1/2 cents an hour
